

ABSTRACT:

The invention relates to a network comprising a plurality of sub-networks which each include terminals and which exchange data with each other via at least one bridge terminal. A controller for controlling a sub-network connects at least one other bridge terminal for data transfer between at least two sub-networks. The bridge terminals are 5 synchronized with only one sub-network during certain periods.

Fig. 6

100557 024900